IMMIGRATION INSIGHTS

Canadian immigration news and updates

OVERVIEW:

Immigrating to Canada

Canada continues to be a top choice when it comes to immigration. Here are some tips for planning your permanent journey to Canada:

- Canada has 10 provinces, so make sure to research the cost of living in the province you'd like to move to.
- Your province of residence will determine your chances of employment, so look into the types of employment opportunities in preparation for your move.
- Canada has four distinct seasons and while it may seem trivial, weather can affect people greatly, so be prepared to live in a country that has extreme weather changes.
- Taxes in Canada are relatively high, so it's important to budget accordingly.

Ultimately, your choice to immigrate to Canada is a great one, but it is imperative to prepare prior to your move so that your journey is as smooth and stress-free as possible.

Satov Immigration is dedicated to bringing you the latest Canadian immigration information so that you stay in the loop and can make informed decisions when it comes to your immigration journey.

What is a misrepresentation

Simply put, a misrepresentation is the failure to provide material facts relating to a relevant matter.

Whether you left out information by accident or on purpose, the results can be the same - a 5-year ban from entering Canada.

One thing that can help you avoid being in this situation, is to take responsibility for your application. Even if you have a representative that is assisting you, the rules are clear, YOU are responsible for the material facts included in your application. So, make sure that you are honest with your representative and provide them with ALL information related to your matter. And, don't lie on your application. The government has a way of obtaining information and believe me, they will find out if you've lied.

Triple check everything. When your representative gives you a copy of your application for review before submission, take the time to actually review it before signing off. While representatives are supposed to be versed in immigration matters, that doesn't mean they never make mistakes.

If you do receive a misrepresentation, you should be given a chance to respond to it. In this case, you may want to consider hiring someone to assist you. An immigration consultant can apply the law to a response, giving you a stronger chance of overcoming the hurdle.

No one wants to be in a situation where they are banned from the very country they dreamed of coming to. Being in the know will help you avoid this.

If you are currently dealing with a misrepresentation, we are experienced and knowledgeable with regards to immigration law. Contact us at Satov Immigration today to find out how we can assist you with your response.

COVID-19 travel requirements

All travelers, with limited exceptions, are required to use ArriveCAN at least 72 hours prior to arrival in Canada.

Even if you are fully vaccinated, you are still required to use ArriveCAN. Fully vaccinated travelers are exempt from quarantine and 8-day testing. To find out if you qualify as fully vaccinated, visit Canada.ca.

Make sure you have the following items with you at the border, for assessment:

MINI CHECKLIST

- ArriveCAN receipt with I or V beside your name
- Proof of vaccination
- Pre-entry test results
- Other travel documents

A NOTE:

The immigration journey can be overwhelming, after all, you're about to embark on a life-changing journey. Whether you choose to hire a professional to assist you with your immigration matter, or you decide to go it alone, always do your research and make sure you are prepared. Learning about how the system works and what is required of you will make all the difference in your experience. Remember, knowledge is power, so be curious and ask questions. This is your life and your life matters!

Until next time,
